METHODISTS ASSEMBLED

Central Penna. Conference Convened at York

HISTORIC HYMN SUNG

The Conference Settles Down to Business, Which Will be of Great Importance

BISHOP WILSON IS PRESIDING OFFICER

York, Pa, March 18.—Promptly at 9 o'clock Wednesday morning the Central Pennsylvania conference of the Methodist Episcopal church was called to order in its fortieth annual session in the Beaver street church. Bishop Luther B. Wilson, D. D. LL D., of Chattanooga, Tenn., the presiding bishop of this session, was in the city but was prevented from being present at the opening of the morning sessions, and W. W. Evans, D. D., presiding elder of the Juniata district was appointed by the bishop to conduct the opening services.

He called the conference to order and announced the historic hymn with which so many conference sessions of world-wide Methodism have been opened:

And are we yet alive,
And see each other's face.

The hymn was sung lustily, as only a company of Methodist preachers can sing it.

Fervent prayers were offered by Rev. J. B. Mann and Dr. D. S. Monroe. Dr. Evans than read Psalm cxxii, and also part of St. Matthew vii.

Bishop Wilson then took the chair and a few verses of "All Hail the Power of Jesus' Name" were sung with great spirit. The bishop, in a few well chosen words, expressed his pleasure in being present and expressed the fervent wish that God's will might be done in all the sessions of the conference.

On request of the Bishop, Rev. J. F. Anderson, secretary of the former conference, called the roll, nearly all the preachers responding. The conference then stood while the names were announced of those who had died during the year: Rev. A. E. Taylor, Rev. Samuel Creighton, Rev. M. L. Smith, Rev. J. P. Moor and Rev. W. R. Hirons.

Rev. J. F. Anderson was elected secretary by acclamation. One of the leading features of the afternoon session was the missionary sermon by Dr. J. R. Van-Pelt, of Lewisburg. The sermon, followed by a lecture by Rev. W. A. Sheriden, D. D. of Baltimore on "Where Shall We Place the Emphasis?"

York, March 22.—Conference Sunday dawned bright and clear, and at an early hour the streets were thronged with persons on their way to the numerous places of worship. The centre of attraction was the Beaver street church where is in progress the Central Pennsylvania conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, was crowded for the conference "Love Feast," at 9 o'clock led by Dr. D. S. Monroe.

At 10 o'clock Bishop Wilson ordained the deacons following the ordination service with a strong, helpful sermon.

The Sunday school session at 1.30 was made interesting by short addresses by former pastors and others.

Dr. H. C. Pardoe presided at the memorial service at 3 o'clock. The ordanation of elders was followed by the reading of the memoirs of the members of the conference who have died during the year. The deceased were A. E. Taylor, Samuel Creighton, M. L. Smith, J. P. Moore and W. R. Hirons. The reading of the memoirs was interspersed with brief remarks. The confefence chorus furnished the music for this solemn and impressive occasion.

The evening service was a combined Epworth League and Sunday school anniversary. Rev. A. S. Fasic presided. Dr. E. M. Randall, general secretary of the Epworth League, was the first speaker. He declared the purpose of the church to be world evangelization. Statesmanship is required. Intelligance and character are two elements of power. Intellectual culture characterizes all great nations and determines national leadership in both religious and similar affairs. Rev. Downey, D. D. was the second speaker.

Nearly all the Protestant pulpits of the city were occupied by members of the conference and distinguished visitors. Large congregations were present in nearly all the churches at both services.

A SPRING FRESHET.

High Waters do Considerable Damage in and Around Bellefonte.

The much expected spring freshet arrived on last Thursday and before its fury was spent great damage was done all along the streams. No one living along the water escaped a flooding and it will be some time before some of them get fixed up again.

"Old residents" will do some hard thinking before they can recall a season when thunder showers such as passed over this section Wednesday night came early in the spring and caused as much damage. Quite frequently the melting snows and April showers bring on a flood but March thunder storms sufficiently hard enough to cause a flood like there was Thursday can hardly be recalled by any of the older citizens. From the time of the first storm shortly after seven o'clock the showers followed each other in quick succession and this kept up till late in the night. Bright flashes of lightning followed by heavy thunder and accompanied by the downpour of rain was warning for those living along the streams to be on their guard and before they were aware of what was happening the water was at their doors.

From what can be learned from those who were out to battle with the elements during the night the water was the highest about five o'clock Thursday morning.

A walk up Spring Creek and out the Logan branch revealed to the writer the havoc wrought by the raging torrents of water. One of the places that suffered heavily was the Yeager swing factory. A great amount of debris blocked the flood gates of the mill dam and the water overflowed the breast of the dam and came pouring into the basement of the factory to such a depth that it flowed out at the windows, which are four or five feet from the floor. In the basement is much of the machinery and a large amount of first class dry lumber used in the manufacture of these famous swings. It will require a great amount of work to fix things right at that place. The Reynold's mill was likewise a sufferer from the flood. In the basement of the mill everything was completely flooded as at the swing factory and operations are suspended for the day. The mill office was also flooded. The water overflowed the railroad tracks and Willowbank street at this point and a crew of workmen were at once put to work to make the necessary repairs to the street and the sidewalk. Many of the nearby cellars were filled with water.

The Nittany Furnace company was hit hard by the flood and it will require some time before all the repairs can be made. Nearly all the trestle in their yards were washed out, among them being the ones built for the new siding a short time ago. The unusually large amount of debris carried down by the flood lodged against the trestles and formed dams which bocked the water over the tracks in the yard and undermined some of them.

Just beyond the furnace there is a deep ravine to the left of the road going from Bellefonte. The water came down this hollow in torrents and tons of rock were washed onto the road, making it almost impossible to pass this point. The devastation wrought by the flood at the toll house was even worse than some of the other places described. The trestle work at the railroad bridge a short distance below the house caught the floating debris and soon a large dam was formed and there was no possible way for the water to escape. It backed up all around the house and flooded everything completely.

The water rose to the depth of about five feet on the road at the toll house and the family living in the house was unable to get down stairs till the water subsided, there being about two feet on the lower floor, when the water fell there were about two inches of sediment on the floors. Some of the stock was drowned.

The Bellefonte fish hatchery at Pleasant Gap was in the path of the flood and much damage was done thereabouts It is not known what amount of fish were set free.

The Centre County fair grounds came in for their share of damage as usual. A number of the horse sheds were washed away and lodged further down the stream.

Worse damage yet is reported from the Buffalo Run Valley. No trains have been run on the Bellefonte Central Railroad as bridges are out and the track washed away and badly damaged in some places. Reports from Coleville are to the effect that it was one of the worst floods ever experienced there. It is almost impossible to enumerate all the damage done. Many outbuildings were swept away and with them went chickens, pigs or whatever was in them. The water washed large holes in many places and even took out telephone poles so that the wires are down. Persons who came in from there this morning say that it is and awful looking sight along the way to see the debris that was scattered by the flood.

All the trains on the Bald Eagle Valley and the Lewisburg road were able to get through.

SHOPMEN ARE SUSPENDED

A Reduction made in the Working Force at Altoona

TOOK EFFECT MONDAY

The Remainder of the men will work Fifty Hours a week, Beginning Today.

THE MEN WILL WORK ON FARMS

Altoona, Pa., March 24—The people of Altoona were thrown into a state of anxiety Monday morning by the announcement that the Pennsylvania Railroad company would make a radical suspension of workmen throughout the vast works during the day. The workmen and their families grew alarmed and many were the men that entered the shops at the first signal whistle calling them out for another week's work fearing that they would not have a position at nightfall. The suspension which was far reaching, reduced the working force down to a rock-bottom basis and was a record breaker in the history of the company in any one day's suspension. There were 2,150 men notified during the day that their services would no longer be needed and they were suspended for an indefinite period. The blow was a severe one individually to those who were thrown out of work but to those that remained came a ray of sunshine, a brighter hope for better times, in the announcement that the shops, beginning with Monday, would work fifty hours a week.

The shop foremen having been previously notified of the coming suspension were prepared to put the orders issued by Superintendent of Motive Power R. N. Durborow into effect with the assembling of the men in the various departments. They had been instructed to use discretion in the class of men they picked for suspension and it was a most disagreeable task that they passed through in singling out the workmen to be laid off. Married men, good workmen and men who had been loyal to the company's interest were to be retained, and in most cases these instructions were adhered to. There were men suspended who had been in the company's service for a number of years but the greatest number were young men, some of whom had been in the shops since they first started to work and earn their own living.

The impression prevails that the company included in the number of suspended men all the workmen that come from points along the Hollidaysburg and Henrietta branches. They were not all suspended but there were a number of them who received notice that their services would not be needed for an indefinite period. The most of these men will likely turn their attention to the cultivation of the plots of ground on which they live or to assisting in farming, there being a demand for men to work on farms in some sections of the county. The branch work trains will continue to run but they will not carry the same number of men as heretofore. The number of suspended men also included a number of young men whose homes are out of the city but who found employment here during prosperous times.

Notice to Subscribers.

Subscribers to either the Bellefonte Republican or the Daily News who have moved or who intend to move this spring should not fail to notify this office of any change in their address, giving the old as well as the new address. This should be done in order that the paper to which you are a subscriber reaches you promptly.

RED MEN BANQUET.

The Annual Gathering Held in Their Rooms on Thursday Evening.

The annual banquet of the Nehasane tribe No. 71 of Red Men of Bellefonte held their annual banquet in their room over the Centre County bank Thursday evening. The Red Men were accompanied by their wives and friends and in all about two hundred persons were present. One of the leading features of the evening was the supper served in elegant style by the ladies and which consisted of anything that the most epicurean could wish. These delightful refreshments having been disposed of the speaking was in order. Great disappointment was manifested when it was learned that the speakers who were coming from Williamsport could not reach Bellefonte on account of the washout on the line of Bald Eagle Valley railroad. They had been especially engaged for the evening and one of them was to have spoken on the subject of Pocohontas, the ladies branch of the order, while the other would have given a history of the Order of Red Men.

However, their absence did not mar the evening's programme to any great extent as Bellefonte speakers filled the bill. R. C. Quigley made the opening address of the evening and was followed by Rev J. Allison Platts who spoke very interestingly of the brotherhood of the order. Francis Speer came in for his share of the glory and have a good history of this rapidly increasing fraternity.

Deitrick's orchestra discoursed music throughout the evening and when the feasting and speaking was done dancing was announced and this finished the closing chapter of the evening's programme.

The Improved Order of Red Men is one of Bellefonte's leading fraternal organizations and is rapidly growing in numbers.

Poultry Club Organized.

A meeting was held at the Y. M. C. A. on Monday evening to discuss the advisability of organizing a poultry club in Bellefonte, and accordingly invitations were sent to all the known poultry raisers in Bellefonte and vicinity. About twenty persons were present at Monday evening's meeting and there was much poultry discussion for a while. Secretary Meserve of the Y. M. C. A. called the meeting to order and upon motion Rev. J. Allison Platts was elected temporary chairman, and Samuel Rumberger temporary secretary. After a lengthy discussion as to the benefits to be derived from such an association and the suggestion of numerous advatages to be secured through the club a move was made for a permanent organization. Rev. J. Allison Platts was elected president of the association, Philip Beezer vice president and A. J. Heverly secretary-treasurer. The president appointed committees on by-laws and membership.

One of the most practical things discussed at the meeting was the large saving that could be made in the purchase of the various poultry foods, as the individual buyer had to purchase in small quantities and pay a higher price proportionately than it could be purchased in large quantities. Other advantages were suggested and as it was getting late the meeting was adjourned to meet next Monday night and hear reports from the committees.

It is the intention to get all the poultry fanciers in Bellefonte interested and to extend the membership to all the breeders and raisers in the county. Circulars will be sent to as many as are known, but if you have not received one it does not mean that you are barred but come forward and make yourself known.

A Ripe Old Age.

One of Bellefonte's remarkable citizens is Mr. Edward Brown, Sr. who makes his home with his son Edward on South Allegheny street. On the coming Thursday March 26th, Mr. Brown will have reached the ninty-fifth milestone of life and is yet enjoying the best of health. He has a good appetite and enjoys his rest as well as any one. He is still able to shave himself and can do it as skillfully as any young man and is not nervous in the least. Such grand old men as these we rarely see and they should be a guide post to the youth to be temperate in their habits that their vitality may be retained till the close of life's day when the infirmaties of age cut short many an existence.

Demorest Contest at Clintondale.

Two very close and interesting declamatory contests were held in the Evangelical church at Clintondale on Friday evening, March 20, under the auspices of the W. C. T. U. The church was filled with an interested audience. The worthy and useful temperance organization holds these contests all over the country for the Demorest Medals for the purpose of impressing upon the people in an attractive way the terrible results of intemperance and thereby creating a sentiment for temperance that will become effective and lasting. The young people who declaim these selections with their valuable lessons on intemperance are themselves arrayed early on the side of right. Indeed these Demorest contest are a splendid means of creating strong temperance sentiment.

Five young girls and one boy all of Clintondale competed in the first contest, the boy Homer Snook by name, being unanimously awarded the medal. In the second contest five young ladies from Mackeyville contested and Miss Mame Showers was the successful winner of the medal. The judges were Miss Margaretta Watson, the president of the W. C. T. U. of Northumberland county, Mrs. J. B. Furst, the president of the local union of Flemington and Mrs. James R. Hughes of Bellefonte.

They were most hospitably entertained by Mrs. John H. Huston. The contest was under the charge of Mrs. G. Watson Fredericks of Lock Haven, the president of the Clinton county W. C. T. U.

A Thrilling Experience.

E. E. Ryan and Roy Hamlin, two young men of Lock Haven had a very thrilling experience in the turbulent waters of Bald Eagle creek Thursday afternoon. They started in a canoe to hunt for ducks in the vicinity of the paper mill and toward Flemington. Not having any success they decided to go down toward Castanea. They were in the current of the stream and opposite the Lock Haven Clay works when Ryan called Hamlin's attention to a bird flying in the air, and the latter raised his gun and taking aim, fired. In so doing he became overbalanced and in his efforts to get righted he upset the canoe, and both men were thrown into the icy cold water which was about fifteen feet deep at this point.

Thomas Meyers and his son Ira were in a field along the creek with a row boat and hearing the shot looked up and saw the men struggling in the water. They at once started for the rescue and called to the men to hold on to the canoe till they could reach them. Twelve minutes elapsed before Meyers and his son reached the men who were on the point of letting go, as they were so benumbed by the cold. Meyers and his son succeeded in getting them to the shore and they were taken to the Meyer's home where restoratives were administered and a good meal prepared for them. The young men claim that they would have drowned had they been compelled to hang onto the canoe a minute longer.

Camp Fire at Gregg Post No. 95.

In honor of Department Commander William T. Powell, Gregg Post No. 95 held a camp fire in their hall Wednesday evening. The camp fire was preceded by a bountiful supper served by the ladies of the post. The ceremonies were in charge of W. H. Musser. A large number of veterans were assembled and listended to the interesting and entertaining address of Commander Powell. Addresses were also made by Gen. James A. Beaver, Senator W. C. Heinle, S. H. Williams, John I. Curtin and others. Many good jokes and stories, illustrating scenes enacted during the war were related and the evening was enjoyed by all present.

Get in Line at the Post Office.

Custom has almost made it a law for people and especially children to crowd up to the carriers' delivery window every Sunday morning and insist on getting their mail first, thus blocking the way out for those who have been served and impede the delivery in general. On behalf of those who have been in the habit of obeying the request to get in line, the Postmaster appeals to parents who send their children for the family mail on Sunday mornings to request of them to get in line, which will greatly expedite matters and enable the carriers to effect the delivery in time for all to attend church who desire to do so,

Death of the Noted Divine Casts Gloom Over the Conference at York

OTHER NEWS OF THE CONFERENCE.

York, March 21st.—A semi-centennial celebration was held Friday night in connection with the Central Pennsylvania Methodist Episcopal Conference. The event marked the fiftieth anniversary of the admission into the ministry of three of the members of conference. The aged ministers, who have rounded out a half century of service in the pulpit, are: Rev. Dr. M. K. Foster, of Danville; Rev. Dr. P. F. Eyre, of Bloomsburg, and Rev. Dr. J. B. Mann, of Dillsburg.

The event was held in the First Methodist Episcopal Church and each of the aged clergyman preached what he termed a thanksgiving sermon.

In 1858 a class entered the East Baltimore Conference and was composed of sixteen members. Of this number only four survive, three of whom took part in tonight's celebration.

For fifty years these ministers have been responding to roll call two of whom have never been absent from the annualmeetings of the conference.

The conference today elected the following ministerial delegates to the General Conference which meets at Baltimore on May 6th:—

Rev. W. W. Evans, Huntingdon; Rev. B. C. Connor, Altoona; Rev. H. L. Jacobs, Altoona; Rev. E. M. Stevens, Carlisle, and Rev. R. H. Gilbert, Berwick.

Rev Dr. Evans, presiding elder of the Juniata district; Rev. Dr. T. S. Wilcox, presiding elder of the Williamsport district, and Rev. Dr. E. M. Stevens, presiding elder of the Harrisburg district, made their annual reports to the conference.

They showed a splendid increase in all the departments except "missions." The Harrisburg district continues to hold the banner in its collections for missions, although the business depression caused a slight falling off. The conversions throughout the district were very satisfactory, but the Juniata district carried off the honors with a total of 2100.

Gloom pervaded the conference during the closing morning session on account of a telegram received from Rev. Dr. George P. Mains, by Bishop Wilson, announcing the death of Bishop Charles Fowler, of New York.

Bishop Wilson after reading the telegram called the conference to prayer.

Bishop Wilson and Rev. Dr. W. W. Evans delivered short eulogistic addresses upon the life and character of the man whom they knew so well.

The conference then passed a resolution of sympathy and ordered the same to be forwarded to the family.

Bad Symptoms.

The woman who has periodical headaches, backache, sees imaginary dark spots or specks floating or dancing before her eyes, has gnawing distress or heavy full feeling in stomach, faint spells, dragging-down feeling in lower abdominal or pelvic region, easily startled or excited, irregular or painful periods, with or without pelvic catarrh, is suffering from weaknesses and derangements that should have early attention. Not all of above symptoms are likely to be present in any case at one time.

Neglected or badly treated and such cases often run into maladies which demand the surgeon's knife if they do not result fatally.

No medicine extant has such a long and numerous record of cures in such cases as Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. No medicine has such a strong professional endorsement of each of its several ingredients—worth more than any number of ordinary non-professional testimonials. The very best ingredients known to medical science for the cure of woman's peculiar ailments enter into its composition. No alcohol, harmful, or habit-forming drug is to be found in the list of its ingredients printed on each bottle-wrapper and attested under oath.

In any condition of the female system, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription can do only good—never harm. Its whole effect is to strengthen, invigorate and regulate the whole female system and especially the pelvic organs. When these are deranged in function or affected by disease, the stomach and other organs of digestion become sympathetically deranged, the nerves are weakened, and a long list of bad, unpleasant symptoms follow. Too much must not be expected of this "Favorite Prescription." It will not perform miracles; will not cure tumors—no medicine will. It will often prevent them, if taken in time, and thus the operating table and the surgeon's knife may be avoided.

Women suffering from diseases of long standing, are invited to consult Doctor Pierce by letter, free. All correspondence is held as strictly private and sacredly confidential. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Dr. Pierce's Medical Adviser (1000 pages) is sent free on receipt of 21 one-cent stamps for paper-covered, or 31 stamps for cloth-bound copy. Address as above.

Mrs: Emma J. Davis of E. Logan St. Bellefonte, Pa. says; I have a great deal of confidence in Doan's Kidney Pills, and have already recommended them in a published testimonial in 1897. I told how I had been relieved of kidney complaint and backache which had kept me suffering for years. Doan's Kidney Pills did this for me when other remedies had failed. Whenever I feel any symptom of my old trouble I send to F. Potts Green's drug store for a supply of Doan's Kidney Pills and it never requires more than a few doses to get me right."

Rheumatism

I have found a tried and tested cure for Rheumatism! Not a remedy that will straighten the distorted limbs of chronic cripples, nor turn bony growths back to flesh again. That is impossible. But I can now surely kill the pains and pangs of this deplorable disease.

In Germany—with a Chemist in the City of Darmstadt—I found the last ingredient with which Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Remedy was made a perfected, dependable prescription. Without that last ingredient, I successfully treated many, many cases of Rheumatism; but now, at last, it uniformly cures all curable cases of this heretofore much dreaded disease. Those sand-like granular wastes, found in Rheumatic Blood, seem to dissolve and pass away under the action of this remedy as freely as does sugar when added to pure water. And then, when dissolved, these poisonous wastes freely pass from the system, and the cause of Rheumatism is gone forever. There is now no real need—no actual excuse to suffer longer without help. We sell, and in confidence recommend

IMMORTALS TO CONGRESS

Organized Labor Asks Body for Certain Favors

CRITICIZES THEIR WORK

Laborers Claim that the Lawmakers are Indifferent and that the Bench is Unfair

THEY WANT CERTAIN LAWS PASSED

Washington, March 19.—In memorials presented to Vice President Fairbanks and Speaker Cannon today, organized labor formally served notice on Congress that it expected certain favoring legulation at this session.

Four measures are desired especially If these are not enacted, and unionists, in veiled but unmistakable language, announced their intention of entering the national campaign to attain their ends.

Headed by Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, a committee of six labor leaders waited on the Vice President and the Speaker. They carried with them a 15-page manuscript, which set forth labor's protest at the inactivity of Congress. The four measures dwelt upon an imperative are:

Law to prevent courts of equity from holding that property or property rights exist in the labor or labor power of any person or persons.

Bill to regulate and limit the issuance of injunctions.

Employers' liability bill.

Bill extending the eight-hour law to all Government employes and those employed upon work for the Government, whether by contractors or subcontractors.

Both Speaker Cannon and Vice President Fairbanks announced their belief that the present Congress would pass an employers' liability act which would overcome the unconstitutionalities of the present law pointed out by the United States Supreme Court in a recent decision These assertions were made unreservedly by the Speaker, but guardedly by the Vice President.

Speaker Cannon was frank in telling Mr. Gompers that he could not agree with him and his associates in their demand that the Sherman law be amended to remove unions outside of the pale of trusts, or to exempt farmers who combine to raise the prices of agricultural products.

The memorial is remarkable for its language criticising Congress and the United States Supreme Court. The former is accused of indifference, if not actual hostility toward the reasonable and righteous measure proposed by the workers for the safeguarding of their rights and interests."

Y. M. C. A. Wins From Renovo.

Friday evening the Y. M. C. A. team won a fast played game of basket ball from Renovo by the score of 29—9 Y. M. C. A. boys were ahead from the beginning of the game, the score standing very close until a few minutes before the end of the first half when the Y. M. C. A. boys played with great skill and put the score to 16—7 in their favor. The Renovo boys, although much larger and heavier, were completely outclassed both by shooting and covering, the Y. M. C. A. men having the ball in their possession most of the time. There was a great deal of applause given the players throughout the game, only when the referee would give his signal of a foul, when the noise would cease and considerable wrangling could be heard among the players because of the decisions, Rev. Platt's who knows the game as an old referee would always explain the rules in such a way as would cause no disturbance and the game would go on. Wade of Renovo made the only basket and shot several fouls. The game ended with the score standing 29-9 in favor of the Y. M. C. A.

PERT PARAGRAPHS.

Can you lead a lead mine?

A tramp doesn't appreciate the honor of being bitten by a prize dog.

By sniffing the odors of a soap factory one would never guess as to the finished product.

Official whitewashing reports are not necessarily white lies.

The man up a tree doesn't see everything, for he is too busy swiping cherries.

People who are adepts at making promises often don't know what to do with them after they are made.

Few men have to disconnect their doorbells to have peace and quiet in leap year.

It would be a happier world if searching the pockets of husbands produced larger results.

Honesty seems to be a relative thing and to depend largely upon locality.

His Year.

The politician comes around
And grasps you by the hand
And tries to find out pleasantly
Where you are going to stand.
He treats you to a fat cigar
And is polite and kind,
But never doubt, oh, little one,
He has an ax to grind.

He asks about the women folks
And how the kids progress
And mentions each of them by name
Correctly, more or less.
He wants to hear of Uncle John
And how old grandpa is,
But all the time he's thinking of
That little ax of his.

If there were no election near,
He wouldn't be in sight,
Inquiring all about the crops
And if the price is right.
He'd be at home behind his desk,
Consulting with his clerk
To see how he could make a stake
Without a stroke of work.

The politician has a way
Of being on the spot
When there is something to be done
Toward furthering his plot.
He is a most alluring chap
When he is so inclined,
But you can bet your happy home
He has an ax to grind.

A Little Card Trick.

A Russian priest was so devoted to the amusement of card playing that he played up to the last moment before commencing the church services. On one occasion, having a particularly good hand dealt him, he thrust the cards into his pocket, intending to return and finish the game after the service. Unluckily the cards fell out on the church floor, to the extreme scandal of the congregation. The witty priest, however, was fully equal to the occasion. At the conclusion of the service he beckoned up one of the choristers and asked him the names of several of the cards, which the boy knew correctly. He then suddenly asked the lad the name of the next saint's day, which the child could not tell.

"See!" cried the priest, turning to the congregation. "You teach your children the names of every card in the pack and leave them ignorant of their religion. Let this be the last time I am compelled to bring playing cards into the church to shame you." And picking up his hand he made an honorable retreat.—London Answers.

A Bad Break.

"It beats the Dutch," said a young broker, "how much trouble a fellow's wife's most charming girl friend can make for a fellow—or for a fellow's wife." Then he explained what appeared to be greatly in need of explanation. "I went home for dinner the other night," he continued, "with a friend who was married recently. The wife's old chum was there and met the husband for the first time.

"'Really,' she said on presentation, 'I quite feel that I have known you. You see, that picture of yours in football costume that Jennie always kept on her dresser so long was very familiar to me.'

"Say, you ought to have seen the face of that friend of mine. But he finally found his voice.

"'But, my dear Miss Smith,' he replied, 'I never was a football player and never had on a football costume.'

"Then you should have seen Miss Smith's face."—New York Globe.

Animals Are Not Proud.

Professor Schuster asserts that animals lack moral feeling entirely, none of their acts being immoral or moral in the broad sense, and that they have no trace of a sense of shame or of honor. Their courage, he declares, is "a mere impulse of nature," and of moral courage they know nothing. He continues: "And animals have no pride in the sense of man's conception of that quality. They are not proud of their kind, of their kindred, of their individuality. They neither have an individuality nor are individual. Animals are not proud because they have no consciousness of the scope of the value of their kind, of their enterprise or of any other form of their capability. They are neither supercilious, proud nor the contrary—that is, grieved, wounded or depressed in regard to a possible pride."

Where Beggars Have Trades Unions.

Begging is a vocation in China and beggary an institution. In every province there is an organized beggars' trade union or guild—in some districts several. These guilds have presidents and officials and are in every respect thoroughly well organized. There is a membership fee of about $4, and all members swear to abide by the rules. The chiefs, or "kings," as they are called, are under the protection of the magistrates, and their power is considerable.—Wide World Magazine.

An Effective Rule.

A number of the hotel keepers of Williamsport have inaugurated a new rule to govern the sale of liquor over their bars, and if rigidly enforced by the bar tenders, will work a large amount of good.

The hotel men have prepared a list of names of men known to them to be of intemperate habits and others whose presence is undesirable about a hotel. This list of names is kept behind the bar and the bartenders are instructed to not allow the men in the bar room. As new names are found and placed on list, the other hotel keepers are notified and the names also placed on their lists. There are now a number of names on all the lists in the city, and these men cannot get liquor served to them over any of the bars. The hotel proprietors will keep this rule up until all the undesirable patrons are known to all the bartenders.

One man when refused liquor at a bar recently hunted up the proprietor and demanded the reason. He was told to leave the place and never ask to be served over the bar again. The hotel adjoining was told of the occurance and he was also placed on the list.

Reach's 1908 Guide.

Reach's Official American League Guide for 1908, published by the A. J. Reach Company of Philadelphia, and edited by Mr. Francis C. Richter, of "Sporting Life," is out, and is, as usual first in the field thus making it the harbinger of the base ball season. It can be said without qualification that excellent as all of the editions of the Reach Guide have been in recent years the 1908 Reach Guide is the best hand book of the kind ever issued by this or any other publisher. The special distinction of the 1908 Guide is next to the text, the superior quality of paper used and the number and beauty of the engravings furnished, the world's championship series being specially well dowered with splendid action pictures. The American League Guide for 1908 is in all respects a first class hand book of the National game and a decided credit to the American League and to the publishers, the Reach Company. The Reach American League Guide for 1908 is for sale by all newsdealers at 10 cents the copy.

How About Base Ball?

With the approach of spring the young man's fancy, as well as that of some older people, turns to baseball and all other sports are lost track of for the time being. The local base ball fans are already scanning the pages of the big dailies to see what is doing in the base ball world, and yet the big league teams are just training. The question naturally arises, "Is Bellefonte going to have a team this year?" If we are to have a club it is none too soon to make an effort to get organized and be ready for business when the season opens. Base ball is a benefit to a town and the man who gets the movement under way is sure to have a large following. Many smaller towns of less importance than Bellefonte have already organized base ball clubs for the summer, and the same should be done here and then turn in and help with the new athletic field. Once Bellefonte has an up-to-date athletic ground interest will be added to the game. We look for something to be doing soon.

Light seed not only means a poor stand of grain, but a mighty poor showing in that which is able to get head above ground.

When neighbors in a community are on cordial and friendly terms it not only makes life more pleasant, but oftimes less expensive.

The enriching and preparation of the soil will have very much to do with determining whether your yield of potatoes this season is 80 or 250 bushels per acre.

While money is an important factor in contributing to the happiness of home life, a wise Providence has ordained that the essential principles of happiness are entirely apart from financial considerations.

One of the excellent features about a dairy which gives a return of $600 to $900 per year is that revenue is forthcoming at stated intervals throughout the year instead of in a lump sum, as when grain or live stock is sold.

Those folks are moving too frequently whose household operations do not result in the accumulation of one rag bag, while those either do not move or clean house frequently enough in whose garrets half a dozen can be found.

Wonder if it isn't much the same instinct which causes folks to set things of questionable worth away with a possibility of their future use as causes the dog to bury in the garden an old bone from which he has gnawed every possible vestige of flesh.

There was exhibited last year at the Jamestown exposition a White Orpington hen that scored 97 points, which makes her the most ideal poultry representative of her time. An added fact of interest in connection with this particular bird is that her owners value her at close to $2,500.

That father is a poor student of boy nature who gives the lad a pig with the understanding that it is a bona fide transfer of property and then pockets the proceeds when the animal is marketed. This is a snide game of the first water, and the boy involved therein has good grounds for grievance.

While there is danger now and then that one will devote himself so exclusively to one occupation or pursuit that his faculties become warped as a result, it is quite as unwise and unsatisfactory for one to spread himself out over so many things that he doesn't amount to anything in any one of them.

Barring the first few weeks when the stomach of the calf is in a tender and sensitive condition and when no ration is so well adapted for it as at least a part whole milk, a fat forming ration can be fed in the shape of oil meal and cornmeal that is just as satisfactory and much less expensive than in the shape of butter fat in the milk.

While the state of Oklahoma is richly endowed with oil and mineral deposits, not the least valuable of her varied assets are a rich soil and genial climate, enabling her to grow bountiful crops of cereal products. Last year she produced 919,000 500-pound bales of cotton, worth not far from $50,000,000, while her 1,300,000 acres devoted to winter wheat yielded a gross revenue of not far from $25,000,000. All her resources considered, Oklahoma is one of the most favorably situated states of the whole Union.

The economy effected by the use of the separator in the dairy has been proved so many times as hardly to need further emphasis, but it is well to put the figures in black and white once in awhile. Experiments noted by the dairy department of the New York experiment station showed that in one instance the loss in butter fat as a result of setting milk in deep pans in running water amounted to one pound for every 100 pounds of milk. In the case of a cow which gave an annual yield of butter fat of 300 pounds the total loss on the basis of the above figures would amount to ninety pounds.

As the result of a gradual yet almost complete denudation of many watersheds in the Appalachian mountain system cities and agricultural lands in the territory referred to are now almost completely at the mercy of spring rains and freshets. It is conservatively estimated that the damage done in central eastern states last season alone amounted to nearly $100,000,000, while similar flood damage, if on a smaller scale, was inflicted by the freshets of February and is likely to be repeated before the season of spring rains is over. Perhaps in no other way is the pressing need of a preservation of our wooded areas being emphasized than in this terrible havoc which is being annually wrought by floods and freshets.

The fellow who this year buys seed off the cob from distant firms may be said to be monkeying with a sort of shell game, which is likely to prove a more hazardous speculation than that which gullible suckers sometimes buck up against at the county fair.

In view of the fact that an early ripening of the onion crop is of the utmost importance, so that the crop may be properly cured before cold weather comes on, the seed should be placed in the ground as soon as the soil can be worked. Both the seed and the young plants are tough and are not hurt by a freeze.

An advantage which is sometimes overlooked in the sowing of early oats is that in case clover is sown therewith the grain can be cut a week or ten days earlier, which will give the clover plants just that much time to thicken up and get well rooted before the hot and usually dry weather of the summer comes on.

It is but human nature in the hired man to kick if his work is so arranged by his employer that he is at it from 5 in the morning until 9:30 p. m. day in and day out. While even the considerate employer cannot always avoid these long hours at busy seasons of the year, he will see that they are the exception and not the rule.

It would seem to be an equitable proposition that if the railroad company is justly entitled to charge demurrage for the detention of its cars past a period of forty-eight hours, the shipper of grain and live stock is likewise entitled to damages if he is compelled to wait longer than a stated time for cars in which to market his live stock or produce.

An asset when old age comes on that is far more satisfying and comforting than a large bank account and broad acres is the esteem, respect and love of the boys and girls who have grown up in the home. This state of affairs resembles the bank account in that it does not come about by chance, but is the outgrowth and result of painstaking care and consideration.

What a fine thing it would be for a change if men could be relieved of the necessity of scratching like mad to get the wherewithal to buy grub with, if women could be relieved of the drudgery of getting said grub ready to put on the table and washing dishes, kettles and pans after it was devoured! Really this would give us a little time to get acquainted with our families and our neighbors and live a trifle.

Where the family is fond of stock soups there is probably no more economical meat that can be got for the family larder than choice soup bones or boiling pieces. The resourceful housewife will not only be able to contrive savory and palatable dishes from such cuts, but the ration she puts on the table will be nutritious as well. Lean meat that may be left over can easily be worked into a good hash with a slight re-enforcement to take the place of the nutritive elements that have been extracted in boiling.

If there is any one precaution that the owner of a dairy should take during the grazing season it is that he should not scrimp his cows on their run or supply of pasture. In just the same way as the growth of a steer will vary from 150 to 300 pounds during a six months' season, depending upon whether the pasturage is abundant or insufficient, will the dairy cow vary in her yield of milk. It takes about so much feed to supply what is called the maintenance ration. It is the amount of food above this which gives a profitable return in flesh or butter fat.

This is the time of the year when the gullible reading public, and especially those who peruse agricultural magazines, want to beware the gas bag seedman, who is already in print with his stories of yields of 1,100 bushels of potatoes, 1,000 bushels of onions, 150 bushels of corn and 120 bushels of oats to the acre. Might as well put him in the Ananias class at once and take it for granted that if he is lying about the quantity or yield which his seeds will produce he is also stretching the truth when it comes to quality and purity. Buy, rather, of some house which keeps within forty rows of apple trees of the truth.

Among the real delicacies that have been enjoyed on the writer's table this winter are home preserved string beans that possess a freshness and fineness of flavor that are but slightly inferior to those gathered fresh from the garden in July or August. The beans in question were picked, washed and cut as for immediate consumption and cooked until nearly done, when they were packed in salt at the rate of four parts beans to one of salt. Not only is the texture of the beans put up in this way crisp and firm, but the fine flavor is remarkably well preserved. Sweet corn put up in the same way is as fine as could well be.

Give the small boy of the home a garden patch this spring which he can call his own, planting the seeds, caring for the growing things and receiving the return which he can make from selling the products of it. Perhaps it is the girl and not the boy, in which case she might be given the same chance with a patch in the vegetable garden or a flower bed which she can care for as her own. The feeling of pride that comes to the child with the supervision or ownership of a thing is a most wholesome sentiment, giving it an interest in the work at hand which it would not have under any other circumstances, and should be encouraged whenever possible.

ABUSE OF PASTURES.

At a recent farmers' institute which the writer attended considerable attention was quite properly devoted to a discussion of farm pasturage, emphasis being placed especially upon the folly of overpasturing, both from the standpoint of harm done to the pasture and loss sustained by the stock raiser through having his animals insufficiently fed and as a consequence stunted in their development. One stock raiser of experience cited the following cases which had come under his own observation: One season with short pasturage a bunch of steers made a gain during the season of 120 pounds each. Estimating the animals as worth $4 per hundredweight, this meant a gain of $4.80 per head. Calling the pasturage worth $3 an acre, the rental value of the land, there was a profit of $1.80 per acre for the season. Another bunch handled by the same feeder after he had profited by his earlier experience were allowed a range of two acres each. At the end of the season they had made a gain of 330 pounds per head. Being thrifty and of better quality, these last brought $4.50 per hundredweight, a total gain during the season of $14.85. Subtracting the cost of pasturage, $6 per head for the two acres, leaves a net gain of $8.85 per head and a net return on each acre of $4.42. While there might be many cases in which the results would not be so striking as in the instances cited, the underlying truth involved is one that every stock feeder should think over carefully. Added to the handicap of pastures being overstocked are often found the other abuses of turning stock on to them in the spring before they get a fair start and of allowing them to be pastured too late in the fall. With proper handling there is no piece of land on the average farm that can be made to give a larger return than a good pasture, and this, too, with the expenditure of practically no labor and with the exhaustion of none of its fertility, but rather an increasing of it. If a pasture gets a good start in the spring and is strong, it will carry two cattle for every three acres. If more than this number are put on, it will quite likely result in financial loss at the end of the season.

COOD MONEY IN POULTRY.

A Pennsylvania schoolmaster living not far from Philadelphia owns a forty acre farm near that metropolis which gives him a larger income than he receives in his capacity as pedagogue. Sixteen acres are devoted to growing potatoes and fourteen to corn, while the remaining ten are given over to the raising of poultry. On this plot he aims to keep from 1,000 to 1,200 laying hens the year round, which give him an annual income of about $3,500. He never keeps a hen over a year old and sells all cockerels that he does not need for his own use at three months old. He raises White Leghorns exclusively and has a contract with a leading Philadelphia hotel which gives him 50 per cent above prevailing market prices on his entire egg output on condition that he is to receive nothing at all for any case of 360 eggs in which a bad or stale egg is found. He aims to give his hens fresh clover pasture all of the year possible and enough range so that they are always clean. He buys yearly the best representatives of the breed that he can find and selects the best layers from his own flocks for his breeding pens. His success is due not only to thoroughbred poultry, but the best in the way of poultry houses and conveniences and thoroughbred care.

SEED GERMINATION.

A nearby reader of these notes writes inquiring what is the lowest temperature that will properly germinate tested seed corn. In reply to our correspondent we would say that, while we have never made a germinating test at varying temperatures and have never read reports of such a test, it will not be difficult to give him the information that he really desires. In seed germination of any kind it is well to keep in mind that in addition to moisture and a seed bed a certain amount of heat is required to wake the sleeping germ to life. In the testing of seed corn it is best where possible to have about the same temperature prevail that would normally exist when the seed were placed in the open ground at planting time. While such temperature varies with different seasons, with different days and from night to day, it would probably run from 60 to 75 degrees F. A further fact that should be kept in mind is that, while the best seed would show little germinating power below 50 degrees, seed that are dead or of weak vitality will not make a respectable showing at any temperature. We believe that it would be safe to say that 60 degrees is the lowest temperature at which seed corn could be given a fair and satisfactory test.

MAN MORE THAN METHOD.

It seems to be the consensus of opinion that in the care and management of the public roads, while a great deal depends upon the system which is followed, even more depends upon the individuals in whose hands are placed the administering of the road laws and the superintendence of the road work. This was given emphasis in a recent farmers' institute which the writer attended, it being agreed that better road work was done under the old system of paying the tax in days' work with competent supervision than under the present cash system in case the road work was placed in careless or indifferent hands. Where good superintendence is to be had under both circumstances the cash system is generally viewed as preferable.

Deafness Cannot be Cured.

By local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.

Life Guards.

The Life Guard's are two regiments of cavalry forming part of the British household troops. They are gallant soldiers, and every loyal British heart is proud of them. Not only the King's household, but yours, ours, everybody's should have its life guards. The need of them is especially great when the greatest foes of life, diseases, find allies in the very elements, as colds, influenza, catarrh the grip, and pneumonia do in the stormy month of March. The best way that we know of to guard against these diseases is to strengthen the system with Hood's Sarsaparilla—the greatest of all life guards. It removes the conditions in which these diseases make their most successful attack, gives vigor and tone to all the vital organs and functions, and imparts a genial warmth to the blood. Remember the weaker the system the greatest the exposure to disease. Hood's Sarsaparilla makes the system strong.

All the Gold IN GEORGIA Could not Buy-

Roding, Ga. August 27, 1906.

Messrs. E. C. DeWitt & Co., Chicago, Ills.

Gentlemen:—

In 1897 I had a disease of the stomach and bowels. Some physicians told me it was Dyspepsia, some Consumption of the Lungs, others said consumption of the Bowels. One physician said I would not live until Spring, and for four long years I existed on a little boiled milk, soda biscuits, doctors' prescriptions and Dyspepsia remedies that flooded the market. I could not digest anything I ate, and in the Spring 1902 I picked up one of your Almanacs as a poor emaciated Dyspepsia wreck will grasp at anything, and that Almanac happened to be my life saver. I bought a fifty cent bottle of KODOL DYSPEPSIA CURE and the benefit I received from that bottle ALL THE GOLD IN GHORGIA COULD NOT BUY. I kept on taking it and in two months I went back to my work, as a machinist, and in three months I was well and hearty. I still use a little occasionally as I find it a fine blood purifier and a good tonic.

May you live long and prosper.

Yours very truly,

C. N. CORNELL.

If a cough once gets into your system it acts on every muscle and fibre of the body and makes you ache all over. It especially affects the intestines and makes you constipated, so in order to get rid of a cold thoroughly and without delay you should not take anything that will tend to constipate. Kennedy's Laxative Cough Syrup acts upon the bowels and thereby drives the cold out of the system. It contains no opiates-it is pleasant to take and is highly recommended for children. THE WOMAN WHO COUGHED.

Catarrh had nearly ruined me. It had eaten away the partition in my nose; produced Asthma, Bronchitis, Rheumatism; ruined my stomach; in fact, gone all through my system. Then Grip finished me. I was a wreck; took cold at nothing; and coughed day and night. The doctors dosed me with opium and quinine. No good. Cough "cures"? Bah! Then Brazilian Balm renovated me. Killed every germ. Took 10 $1.00 bottles. Now I'm like a girl of 18.

AMERICAN OFFICERS OF HIGH RANK AND OTHERS ENDORSE PE-RU-NA.

Prominent People Recommend the Remedy Pe-ru-na.

Dr. Hartman's World Renowned Catarrh Medicine.

A Remedy for the Grip.

Gen. W. H. Parsons, 925 H St., N. W., Washington, D. C., writes as follows:

"Upon the recommendation of personal friends and many strong testimonials to the efficacy of Peruna in the treatment of the numerous symptoms of the grip with which I have been affected for four months past, I have been induced to undergo a treatment of this justly celebrated formula.

"I feel a decided change for the better by its use for one week only, especially in toning up the stomach, and a consequent decided effect upon my appetite.

"I therefore feel much encouraged that I am on the road to complete restoration.

"My numerous friends in Texas, where I have had the honor to command a brigade of her veteran cavalry in a four-year war, may accept this voluntary testimonial to the merit of Peruna from a sense of obligation for its wonderful efficacy."

Pe-ru-na a Good Tonic.

Gen. M. C. Butler, of South Carolina, writes from Washington, D. C., as follows:

"I can recommend Peruna for dyspepsia and stomach trouble.

"I have been using your medicine for a short period and I feel very much relieved.

"It is indeed a wonderful medicine, and besides a good tonic."

Colds in the Head and Throat.

Chas. W. Bowman, 1st Lieut. and Adjt. 4th M. S. M. Cav. Vols., writes from Lanham, Md., as follows:

"Though somewhat averse to patent medicines, and still more averse to becoming a professional affidavit man, it seems only a plain duty in the present instance to add my experience to the columns already written concerning the curative powers of Peruna.

"I have been particularly benefited by its use for colds in the head and throat.

"I have been able to fully cure myself of a most severe attack in forty-eight hours by its use according to directions.

"I use it as a preventive whenever threatened with an attack.

"Members of my family also use it for like ailments.

"We are recommending it to our friends."

Recommends Pe-ru-na to the Afflicted.

Brig. Gen. D. T. Kirby, Washington, D. C., writes concerning Peruna, as follows:

"Friends of mine having used your Peruna catarrh cure with good results, I am impressed with its curative qualities, and can recommend it to those who are afflicted."

Pe-ru-na in Tablet Form.

Some people prefer to take tablets, rather than to take medicine in a fluid form. Such people can obtain Peruna tablets, which represent the medicinal ingredients of Peruna. Each tablet is equivalent to one average dose of Peruna.

For Catarrh of the Stomach.

Gen. W. W. Duffield, Washington, D. C., writes:

"I have used Peruna in my family and have found it a valuable medicine and take pleasure in recommending it to all who suffer from catarrh of the stomach or who require a tonic of prompt efficacy."

DEAFNESS CAUSED BY CATARRH—RELIEVED BY PE-RU-NA.

Gen. A. M. Legg, writes from the Savings Bank Building, Washington, D. C., as follows:

"I take pleasure in endorsing the many recommendations I have heard and read of Peruna, because of having had knowledge of the truth of so many of them.

"We always tell our sick and ailing friends of the remedies that we have learned, from experience, were good for us when ailing in the same way, and we do it as a duty we feel that we owe them.

"Why is it any the less our duty to advise all the people we can when we know of a good and comparatively inexpensive remedy that makes many cures, and benefits in almost all cases?

"My own little personal experience of being relieved of deafness, caused by a siege of catarrh, warrants me in advising all the afflicted to just try Peruna."

Used Pe-ru-na—Satisfied As to Its Merits—Recommends It to All Sufferers.

Gen. S. S. Yoder, 203 Md. Ave., N. E., Washington, D. C., writes:

"I desire to say that I have found Peruna to be a wonderful remedy. I only used it for a short time and am thoroughly satisfied as to its merits. I shall gladly recommend it to all sufferers."

For Kidney Trouble, Coughs, Colds and Catarrh.

Gen. A. T. Hawley, 1336 25th St., N. W., Washington, D. C., writes:

"I have used Peruna and find it very beneficial for kidney trouble, and especially good for coughs, colds and catarrhal trouble."

Convinced of Pe-ru-na's Merit.

Brig. Gen. J. Floyd King, Washington, D. C., writes:

"I unhesitatingly state that I am convinced Peruna is a medicine which will effect all that is claimed for its use."

Those desirous of obtaining special directions with regard to the use of Peruna should write to Dr. S. B. Hartman, President of the Hartman Sanitarium, Columbus, Ohio.

When Other Remedies Failed Pe-ru-na Proved Efficacious.

Hon. Geo. W. Honey, National Chaplain U. V. U., Ex-Chaplain 4th Wisconsin Cavalry, Ex-Treas. State of Wisconsin and Ex-Q. Master General State of Texas, G. A. R., writes from 1700 First street, N. E., Washington, D. C., as follows:

"I cannot too highly recommend your preparation for the relief of catarrhal troubles in their various forms.

"Some members of my own family have used it with most gratifying results.

"When other remedies failed, Peruna proved most efficacious and I cheerfully certify to its curative excellence."

Pe-ru-na, a Standard Treatment For Catarrhal Diseases.

Mr. John C. Nelson, Dayton, Tenn., geologist and mining engineer, while a Captain in the Federal Army during the Civil War, contracted a case of rheumatism. This malady was constant and persistent, inducing the development of other ailments, which also became chronic. After taking a course of Peruna, Capt. Nelson writes:

"Having been painfully afflicted with chronic rheumatism and the adjunctive complications for many years, and after having received many general and special treatments with only temporary relief, I read your scientific treatise on catarrhal diseases.

"At my request you prescribed a special course of the Peruna remedies, which I closely followed, and am happy to report that my rheumatism and complicated ailments are subdued, and I feel young again at the age of 69 years.

"Reason will accept your classification of catarrhal diseases as scientific and true, and the Peruna remedies as a standard treatment for them. I thank you heartily for your skilled and logical advice."

Enjoys Renewed Health and Strength.

James J. Osborn, 623 Wahsatch Ave., Colorado Springs, Colo., has filled all the positions in Knight Templars Masonic Order, was a Mason since 1866, Judge of County Court, Clinton, Mo., and also County Collector of Clinton. He writes:

"A sluggish liver which I had been troubled with for two years made life miserable and I was unable to attend to my business half the time. I lacked energy, had headache most of the time, and my food distressed me and did not seem to do me a particle of good.

"Reading of the many cures performed by Peruna, I decided to try a bottle. Before I had taken many doses I felt better.

"I took it as directed for two months when I was a well man."

EDITORIAL.

THE crusade for good roads is one that should be commended, for it is a great and good thing to lift the country out of the mud.

THOSE who have gone through the mill of experience know that there is no truth in the saying that it is cheaper to move than to pay rent.

"Fingerling" Trout.

A shipment of trout fry was made from the Bellefonte hatchery last week to Philipsburg for distribution in the streams thereabouts. The Journal in commenting on the shipment thinks they are too small to be put out into the streams and contends that it is a waste of the state's money to conduct the fish industry in this manner. These are what the fish commission calls fingerlings, but another exchange says the trout being shipped from some of the hatcheries are so small that a magnifying glass has to be used to distinguish the fish from the microbes in the cans. Why the commission sends out such small fry is a question to many, and it has been remarked that they have regard for big fish and want to provide food for them. The tiny fingerlings are certainly too small to take care of themselves and easily fall prey to the larger trout.

It seems a shame to waste the state's money in maintaining hatcheries which do not provide the right sized trout for the streams. It is beginning to appear that men with more knowledge of fish are needed for the commission. Local trout fishermen report that the coming season will be a good one as the past winter was favorable for the trout, the ice protecting them from the wild animals, and the high waters are a source of better food supply.

THE members of the United States Senate have cause for regret in the death of Senator Bryan, of Florida, which occurred before that gentleman had time to impress his individuality upon the upper house of the National law making body.

WHILE the railroads are adopting all manner of retrenchments they must be looking toward the future. The New York Central has decided to buy 135 new locomotives and the Pennsylvania has found its all steel car satisfactory and will put 200 of them in the service.

SENATOR Tillman is not contented unless he is abusing the President.

THE apparent quietness among the anarchists should not be cause for abatement in the war against these enemies of government.

LET us hope that the people of this county will take the time and trouble to scrutinize every claim of the candidates for the several offices.

LANCASTER county farmers are asking for men to help them in the fields the coming season. Labor is scarce and they have applied to the immigration authorities.

FOR some time it has been evident that condition in the industrial plants of this section are rapidly improving and those familiar with the situation are of the opinion that there will be a steady gain in orders.

FOR the first time since the end of October a decrease in the freight car storage is reported. This should be encouraging as it comes on the heels of the re-opening of the mills and factories and the increased demand for coal.

Rewards for Night Riders.

Governor Wilson of Kentucky has offered a reward of $500 for information that any "night riding" is about to take place, and another $500 for the arrest and conviction of any two or more persons engaged in conspiracy to interfere with the sale of tobacco. The remedy thus proposed for the state of lawlessness that has has disgraced Kentucky for months is pitifully inadequate. It is true, that a witness in a Kentucky court recently quoted the price for murder at $100, and alleged that figure had the sanction of the highest authority, and from this it might be argued that five times that sum would be ample to induce treachery to a lawless organization. But the argument is not convincing.

THE supreme court of Missouri has decided that street loafing is not illegal, but it is not expected that there will be a rush of professionals to that state.

THE reward offered for the capture of a Night Rider and the threats made against them has proved an incentive to greater atrocities by that lawless band.

IT is probable that there will be a drop in the prices of foodstuffs, and there certainly ought to be. The people could stand the high prices when everybody was working over time, and the producer was justly entitled to his share of the abounding prosperity. But things are different now and a substantial drop in necessaries of the life will be very much appreciated by the average householder.

FROM unpleasant incidents in their own experience most persons will agree with Secretary Wilson that the cold storage egg is neither "fresh" nor "strictly fresh." The attempt to palm off these "ancient lays" on an unsuspecting breakfaster involves many of the elements of false pretense, and a June egg under a January label is a crime in the eyes of the court as well as in the mouth of the disgusted consumer.

THE Knickerbocker Trust Company, of New York, the bank that caused the "fear panic" from which the country is emerging, will reopen for business on March 26 on a plan similar to that adopted by Receiver George H. Earle, Jr., in reopening the Real Estate Trust Company of Philadelphia a year or so ago. The step, it is said, marks the advent of a new era in New York's financial world and, in the words of the counsel for the depositors' committee "will have a stimulating effect not only upon the local financial situation but upon every financial situation thing on the globe. It is the best that has happened since the panic.

Why Not Farm?

With a large number of men thrown out of work at their usual vocation, and the spring work in in the farming sections soon to open, conditions ought to be such as to make it easier than heretofore for farmers to secure help. And who will say but that if numbers of the laborers now out of work should hire out with farmers, obtain steady employment, and determine to leave the crowded city places for the offerings of the rural districts, they shall have not bettered their chances for a steady livelihood? Agriculture has many opportunities, and if by the stern hand of necessity, men are driven to it to learn a profitable lesson in economics the depression in the industrial world will have had at least one silver thread in its cloud.

THE organization of a poultry club in Bellefonte does not mean that you will have to be more cautious about locking your coop at night.

AN exchange pointedly remarks: "Don't wait for Congress to relieve the financial stringency. Work harder and pay your debts as quickly as possible and you will be helping to restore confidence."

THE Coatesville Times argues that "the man who had contracted the saving habit never sends to the soup house." In explaining its position the Times says that when the mills and shops of Coatesville were running to their capacity, and wages were good, only a very few people had the fore-sight to put a little money away each week for the proverbial "rainy day." "Money came in handfuls," says the Times, "and it went the same way. That is why there is so much want in Coatesville and every other industrial towns today, and so many applications for help."

Operations have already been commenced on several new buildings to be erected here this spring. Ground has been broken and material is being placed for the building of dwelling houses by John Mokle, Henry Confer, Norman Lighthamer and William Schenck. The members of the German Reformed church residing in this vicinity are also planning for the erection of a house of worship as soon as a suitable site can be purchased. Nearly all of these structures will be of brick or partially brick. The building of these homes has been made necessary by the scarcity of tenant houses which is attributed to the recent purchases made by the incoming retired farmers. Mechanics who are engaged in the several lines of work connected with building enterprise are jubilant over the prospects of work during the greater part of the season.

To Our Subscribers

Postal Department Compels Us to Make Collections.

A new ruling by the Postmaster General Washington forbids the sending of weekly papers through the mails at the secondclass rate to any subscriber who is more than one year in arrears. The new order was to take effect January 1st, 1908, but an extension until April 1 has been granted publishers in order to get subscriptions due them paid up and in shape for the new ruling.

You will note that opposite your name on the label of your paper is the date on which your subscription has expired, and we kindly ask you who are in arrears, please remit at once.

THE REPUBLICAN is proud of its large list of prompt payers who pay every year, or every two years as some do, paying a year or more in advance. This class of subscribers is not affected by the ruling, but other subscribers who are as good as "old wheat in the mill" who leave their subscription stand two or three years or longer, are included in the rule and these are the friends to whom we mail notices so get ready. The rule is imperative on all newspapers to collect or drop the names of delinquents. Our subscibers will know our position and we urge all to make quick settlement. An easy and prompt way is to mail check, postal order, or currency direct to THE REPUBLICAN office as soon as you read this notice.

We need the co-operation of our friends to meet this iron-clad ruling of the postoffice department, the purpose of which few of our subscribers understand. One of the objects is to exclude from the mails the second class mail matter being sent to persons who are not actual subscribers and thus reduce the cost of mail transportation many, many thousands of dollars.

Please do not overlook this notice as it is of great importance to you and THE REPUBLICAN. Early and prompt attention will avoid misunderstandings and unmeant ill-feelings later on—about the first week in April.

A Noble Outcast.

Among the many and diverse celebrations that characterized St. Patrick's Day in the infant but sturdy borough of Snow Shoe, Pa., none attracted so much attention as the production of the beautiful four-act drama "A Noble Outcast" by St. Mary's Dramatic Club. This Club, holding as it does a most enviable reputation for dramatic ability fairly outdid itself in the drama of Tuesday night.

The "Noble Outcast" is a drama that demands much professional acting. St. Mary's Club was equal to the occasion. Nothing can daunt its courage or shake its ambition. From the time that the curtain arose on the beautiful scene of a Southern garden till it went down, it was evident that the actors had captured their audience and held them spellbound. Their deep and heart rendering pathos brought out all the clouds of sadness only to be dispelled again by their sparkling wit. The cold, keen and villainous conspiracy, the thrilling excitement, all found a most life-like exponent in the respective characters. The most minute detail of each character was portrayed with the ease and grace of professional artists of the foot-lights.

J. P. Kelley as "Gerald Weston" in the title role, was a typical tramp, he certainly wrested the spurs from any knight of the road between New York, San Francisco and Snow Shoe. His cool wit caused the light ripples of laughter to mingle with the tears of his sorrowful life. L. M. Kelley as "Colonel Lee," depicted the Southern banker most realistically, bringing out most clearly the generosity, honor and manly kindness for which the Southern gentleman is renowned. "James Blackburn," in the person of T. F. Kelley, incurred the hatred of all for his villainy. As the plotting, unscrupulous, deceptive villain, Mr. Kelley added new laurels to his dramatic reputation. As the gallant and ardent lover he concealed the heart of the conspirator, as the scoundrel, he admirably forgot the gentle lover.

"Jack Worthington," his rival, found an excellent duplicate in N. P. Casher. Always the easy, gentle wooer of France, he arrayed all the qualities of the noble hearted youth in one grand character. "Mrs. Lee," the Colonel's wife, a noble Southern lady, with a soft sweet, motherly heart, as Miss May Kelley, was most true to nature. The nobility of womanhood the sweetness of motherhood, the tender fidelity of the wife was brought out by Miss Kelley in a masterly manner. The part of the sweet, innocent, agile, young France was most gracefully and artistically expounded by Miss Catherine Casher. She carried the entire audience with her. All sympathized with her in her sad and dreary life in the hut and laughed with her in her joyous life in the mansion. The haughty independence of the maid "Sadie," caused Miss L. Glenn to be a favorite with the audience from the very beginning.

A most enjoyable feature of the play were the specialties between the acts. With rare elocutionary ability, Miss Mayme Langton produced the "Kentucky Belle," while the singing of the boys quartette and Miss Justina Kelley brought forth rounds of applause.

The musical part was in the hands of Snow Shoe's famous band. To add to the tone of the already exquisite program the band discoursed some delicious music.

When the curtain went down on the last act and the audience, to the tune of the grand finale march, filed out of the hall, it was the unanimous opinion of all that St. Mary's Dramatic Club is second to none.

Too much praise cannot be given to the Club, and above all, its Director of Drama—the Rev. Father Corcoran. The success of this, as of all previous productions, is attributable principally to the patience and untiring care of the Rev. Director. He and the Club deserve the highest compliments on the success of their latest production, and the people of Snow Shoe, will anxiously look forward to another treat from these young Thespians.

THE CAMPAIGN STRENUOUS.

The women of London, God bless 'em,
Are after the ballot red hot.
Not even the cops can suppress them
Or foil for a moment their plot.
They rise up in meeting and clamor
For what they consider their right.
The speaker his gavel may hammer,
But that doesn't put them to flight.

They come to the commons insisting
Where women before never spoke.
Quite useless the men find resisting
Or treating the case as a joke.
They cheerfully hike to the prison,
Nor will they for fines pay a cent,
To show the new girl has arisen
And will not be bossed by a gent.

They don't want to sit on election
And let their old men do it all.
They want to help make the selection
And shout when the ministers fall.
They want to enfranchise the ladies
If ever they wanted a thing;
If not, then blue blazes and hades
Will romp for a time in the ring.

They seem to be tired of asking
And not getting any reply.
And so, their true nature unmasking,
They throw things where once they were shy.
Not as a polite, petted kitten
This boon from their lords would they wrest.
They're going right after the Briton
With tactics he understands best.

Getting Ready.

"First time I ever saw Jenkins take a drink, and he has had several now."

"He doesn't break loose often."

"There he goes downing another."

"Don't be too hard on him. I heard him say that his wife expected him to be the cook tonight."

What's the Use?

When March is mad
And hope is sad
And April miles away;
When bills are due
And debts accrue,
The worry turns you gray.

When April clear
Comes smiling near
And all the world is fair,
Your cash still slim
Makes fair hope dim,
You feel inclined to swear.

When smiling May—
But stop, but stay,
I see with much regret
Though I stretch my rhyme
Through the summer time
It wouldn't pay a debt.

Almost Hit It.

"Was he much shaken up in the wreck?"

"Well, he was thrown through the dining car."

"Any serious results?"

"Yes; he missed a meal."

Warranted.

"Have you heard about Brown?"

"No. What?"

"A screaming success."

"Is that so? What is it?"

"Oh, a boy."

Different Kind.

"Charley did not go down to the office today."

"No; he is indisposed."

"Ill?"

"Hardly; just indisposed to work."

Business.

The man who waits a leap year chance
To wed, if he is wise,
Will cut out all such foolishness
And advertise.

PERT PARAGRAPHS.

Worth is an illusive quality that resides not in an object of itself, but depends upon co-ordination.

Does getting elected to the senate make a man a millionaire, or does getting to be a millionaire make a man a United States senator?

Weather is an invention of the gods to keep people from quite being bored to extinction.

A liar may not have much influence, but his profession is a full one, and the members are all busy.

If a thing is handsome according to the money that is in it, many an old stocking is a thing of beauty.

It is a good thing that we can't all be successful. Some women want to regulate the universe from now to infinity.

Don't have too good an opinion of yourself, but insist upon it in others.

It is a good thing to have the friendship of dogs, but don't let them depend upon you for all their bones.

An old bachelor generally thinks he knows everything and eventually marries to prove it.

An Effective Scarecrow.

A scarecrow used by a farmer in the north of England not only scared every crow that saw it, but one crow was so frightened that he brought back the corn he had carried to his nest three days before.—London Tit-Bits.

Grateful.

"And now," said the talkative man at the concert, "suppose at a time like this you were all alone in the world. What would you do with"— Nervous Man—Thank the Lord.

They Are Rare.

Peggy—Was that p'liceman ever a little baby, mother? Mother—Why, yes, dear. Peggy (thoughtfully)—I don't believe I've ever seen a baby p'liceman!—Punch.

Forecastle Gourmets.

"Scouse, or lob scouse, a parson's face sea pie, junk, tack, slush and duff—there's a meal ye can't beat nowheres," said the sailor.

"Yes," he went on, "ye can talk about yer ris de veau, yer vol au vent, yer mouses and other French dishes, but they ain't none o' them in it with sea fare dished up by a good sea lawyer.

"Scouse is soup, soup made o' salt beef. Add some good sea vegetables to it, sitch as spud sprouts and split peas, and ye get an extra fine soup, what is generly called lob scouse. Pot au feu is slops beside a rich lob scouse.

"Foller up yer scouse with a parson's face sea pie. That's a pie made of bull dock's head. Good? Why, friend, there ain't nothin' like it on earth.

"Junk is salt beef. Junk ain't no brain food. It don't strengthen the mind like a correspondence course, but, by tar, I'd ruther have it than caneton a la presse or a supreme de sole.

"Tack and slush is the sailor's bread and butter. What if ye do have to break yer tack with a tack hammer, and what if yer slush is sometimes strong enough to queer the compass? Sailors need strong food, for they must do their work."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

The Age of Artificial Beauty.

Writers on topics concerning women's matters would fain have us believe that the present is the age of beauty. The fact is that never before have the arts of artificiality been so widely adopted among all classes as they are today.—London Opinion.

And Now He Doesn't.

Howell—Do you like congregational singing? Powell—I did until the cat in our neighborhood adopted the idea.

A LAZY LIVER

May be only a tired liver, or a starved liver. It would be a stupid as well as savage thing to beat a weary or starved man because he lagged in his work. So in treating the lagging, torpid liver it is a great mistake to lash it with strong drastic drugs. A torpid liver is but an indication of an ill-nourished, enfeebled body whose organs are weary with over-work. Start with the stomach and allied organs of digestion and nutrition. Put them in working order and see how quickly your liver will become active. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery has made many marvelous cures of "liver complaint," or torpid liver, by its wonderful control over the organs of digestion and nutrition. It restores the normal activity of the stomach, increases the secretions of the blood-making glands, cleanses the system of poisonous accumulations, and so relieves the liver of the burdens imposed upon it by the defection of other organs.

Symptoms. If you have bitter or bad taste in the morning, poor or variable appetite, coated tongue, foul breath, constipated or irregular bowels, feel weak, easily tired, despondent, frequent headaches, pain or distress in "small of back," gnawing or distressed feeling in stomach, perhaps nausea, bitter or sour "risings" in throat after eating, and kindred symptoms of weak stomach and torpid liver, or biliousness, no medicine will relieve you more promptly or cure you more permanently than Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery.

Perhaps only a part of the above symptoms will be present at one time and yet point to torpid liver, or biliousness and weak stomach. Avoid all hot bread and biscuits, griddle cakes and other indigestible food and take the "Golden Medical Discovery" regularly and stick to its use until you are vigorous and strong.

Of Golden Seal root, which is one of the prominent ingredients of "Golden Medical Discovery," Dr. Roberts Barthlow, of Jefferson Medical College, says: "Very useful as a stomachic (stomach) tonic and in atonic dyspepsia. Cures gastric (stomach) catarrh and headaches accompanying same."

Dr. Grover Coe, of New York, says: "Hydrastis (Golden Seal root) exercises an especial influence over mucous surfaces. Upon the liver it acts with equal certainty and efficacy. As a cholagogue (liver invigorator) it has few equals." Dr. Coe also advises it for affections of the spleen and other abdominal viscera generally, and for scrofulous and glandular diseases, cutaneous eruptions, indigestion, debility, chronic diarrhea, constipation, also in several affections peculiar to women, and in all chronic derangements of the liver, also for chronic inflammation of bladder, for which Dr. Coe says "it is one of the most reliable agents of cure."

Prof. John King, M. D., late of Cincinnati, author of the AMERICAN DISPENSATORY, gives it a prominent place among medicinal agents, reiterates all the foregoing writers have said about it, as does also Prof. John M. Scudder, M. D., late of Cincinnati. Dr. Scudder says: "It stimulates the digestive processes and increases the assimilation of food. By these means the blood is enriched, * * * * the consequent improvement on the glandular and nervous systems are natural results." Dr. Scudder further says, "in relation to its general effect upon the system, there is no medicine in use about which there is such general unanimity of opinion. It is universally regarded as the tonic, useful in all debilitated states * * *."

Prof. Finley Ellingwood, M. D., of Bennett Medical College, Chicago, says of Golden Seal root: "It is a most superior remedy in catarrhal gastritis (inflammation of the stomach), chronic constipation, general debility, in convalescence from protracted fevers, in prostrating night-sweats. It is an important remedy in disorders of the womb." (This agent, Golden Seal root, is an important ingredient of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription for woman's weaknesses, as well as of the "Golden Medical Discovery.") Dr. Ellingwood continues, "in all catarrhal conditions it is useful."

Much more, did space permit, could be quoted from prominent authorities as to the wonderful curative properties possessed by Golden Seal root.

We want to assure the reader that "Golden Medical Discovery" can be relied upon to do all that is claimed for Golden Seal root in the cure of all the various diseases as set forth in the above brief extracts, for its most prominent and important ingredient is Golden Seal root. This agent is, however, strongly reinforced, and its curative action greatly enhanced by the addition, in just the right proportion of Queen's root, Stone root, Black Cherrybark, Bloodroot, Mandrake root and chemically pure glycerine. All of these are happily and harmoniously blended into a most perfect pharmaceutical compound, now favorably known throughout most of the civilized countries of the world. Bear in mind that each and every ingredient entering into the "Discovery" has received the endorsement of the leading medical men of our land, who extol each article named above in the highest terms. What other medicine put up for sale through druggists can show any such professional endorsement? For dyspepsia, liver troubles, all chronic catarrhal affections of whatever name or nature, lingering coughs, bronchial, throat and lung affections, the "Discovery" can be relied upon as a sovereign remedy.

A little book of extracts treating of all the several ingredients entering into Dr. Pierce's medicines, being extracts from standard medical works, of the different schools of practice will be mailed free to any one asking (by postal card or letter), for the same, addressed to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., and giving the writer's full post-office address plainly written.

Harrigan.

By LULU JOHNSON.

Copyrighted, 1908, by Jesser Morgan.

There was no uproar in the street, only the long, single file of depositors waiting patiently in the faint hope that the bank might open its doors and let them present at the window the checks which they nervously fingered.

The scene being enacted under the great glass dome within the bank presented a curious contrast to the almost hopeless inactivity outside. In the directors' room the bank examiner and the president sat at the long table scanning piles of collateral.

At the bookkeepers' desks the clerks were helping the staff of accountants to examine the huge ledgers, and in the wire cages the assistant cashier and his staff were counting over the stacks of bills and the great bags of coin. The cashier, Douglas, was not among those present.

Tim Harrigan looked up from his desk as the assistant cashier, Mr. Waring, passed.

"I wish you'd count these," he said. "I've gone over it three times, and it seems to be $200 short."

Waring stepped into the cage and ran over the bills with practiced touch. A second time he counted them and then looked up.

"That is just what we are trying to find out," he said to Harrigan. "For months Douglas has been slipping one or two bills out of a package. It was easier than falsifying the entries, and as most of the money was cash reserve the trick may have been going on for a year. It was when one of the packages was paid out by mistake in Douglas' absence that the first suspicion was aroused. I asked him about it when he came back from lunch. He gave an explanation, but when he did not come down yesterday morning suspicion was confirmed, and somehow the news got out, and so the run started."

"And a precious lot of work it is making," said Harrigan crossly as he thought of the hard labor of the night before and of the broken engagement to take Nell to the theater. Waring laughed knowingly.

"Don't mind about the girl," he advised. "There's every prospect of getting through tomorrow, and you can take her to the show then. Keep an eye peeled for short packages and lay them to one side."

The assistant cashier passed on, and Tim Harrigan bent to his work again. Outside a hand organ grinder had drawn up at the curb to cheer the waiting line with popular songs. Tim gritted his teeth as the familiar strains of "No Wedding Bells For Me" came through the ventilators. For a moment he was half envious of the fleeing cashier.

Douglas had taken plenty of money. Twenty thousand from the previous day's receipts were known to be gone. What else was missing could be told only when the auditing was accomplished. Twenty thousand! Just one of those crisp bills would enable him to get married and set up the little home for which he longed. He and Nell were saving, but their bank account grew with such pitiful slowness.

The hand organ changed its tune, and Bascom, in the next cage, laughed. "There's your song, Tim," he said and softly began to hum the words of the chorus:

H-a double r-i-g-a-n spells Harrigan,
I'm proud of all the Irish blood that's in me.
Divil a word a man can say agin ye,
H-a double r-i-g-a-n ye see,
It's a name that a shame never has been connected with,
Harrigan—that's me.

Soon the organ was pushed on to more remunerative stands, but the strains kept whirling through Tim's head. It was a catchy air just then popular in the vaudeville houses where he and Nell sought their amusement, and she delighted in singing it to him.

It brought to his mind a picture of the parlor in the little flat where he spent most of his evenings. It was clean and neat and had the aspect of a home, but the tiny flat was small, and the children overran the place. He wanted his own home alone with Nell. Just one of the crisp bills which Douglas had taken would have set them up and have left a tidy balance besides.

Tim gritted his teeth at the thought. He counted the packages of bills mechanically, now and then throwing out one in which the count was short. He had completed the count of the hundred dollar bills and was working on the thousands now.

Here, too, he found discrepancies. It was as easy to slip a couple of these notes from a package of fifty as to abstract them from the packages of a lesser denomination. Douglas' plan had been absurdly simple in a way. Tim wondered that others had not thought of it. He might have done it himself with little fear of detection. He might do it now with absolute impunity.

The thought staggered him for an instant, and he leaned uncertainly against the side of the cage. On the polished counter before him were a score of packages from which bills were missing. What was to prevent his slipping a couple of bills from a perfect package and toss it on the short count pile? It would be blamed on Douglas. No one would ever suspect.

One bill would enable him to marry Nell and fit up a home such as they had dared to dream of. It required only a single deft motion. He could slip the bills off the pile and into his pocket. The fiction of a legacy would explain his sudden affluence, and no one would ever dream of his transgression.

He was leaning against the wire partition that separated him from Bascom's compartment, and the clerk looked up.

"Tired out, Tim?" he asked kindly. "It's a tough job. I'll be glad when it's done. I'm as sick of money as a girl in a candy store is of chocolates."

Tim nodded, and Bascom went on counting the rolls of gold coin, whistling softly as he worked. Tim started as the tune caught his attention. It was "Harrigan," and Bascom was whistling the chorus:

H-a double r-i-g-a-n, you see,
It's a name that a shame never has been connected with,
Harrigan—that's me.

Tim slipped off the high stool and went over to the water cooler. The iced water reduced his fever, and he went back to the dull drudgery of the count, his momentary madness gone. He was proud of his name. He never could face Nell burdened with secret knowledge of guilt; he never could offer her a home that was bought with stolen money. The song had saved him.

It was late in the afternoon when he tabulated the results of his count and took them to the president. The gray haired old man gave a sigh of relief as he saw the total.

"It is not as bad as I had feared," he said slowly, passing the memorandum to the examiner. "Douglas hit us pretty hard, but he did not deal a deathblow."

"The bank will keep open?" cried Tim, a smile spreading over his face. With the bank closed, marriage with Nell seemed further away than ever.

"The bank will keep open," verified the president. "And that reminds me! Mr. Waring is to be promoted to the position of cashier, and he has recommended you for his place as assistant. It will mean a raise of $300 a year. You are married?"

Tim shook his head.

"Only engaged," he said simply. "But with the raise I can afford to get married."

"Come to me if you want to borrow money to set up housekeeping with," said the president kindly. "We want our men to have hopes. It steadies them down."

An hour later a notice was posted on the bank doors that the institution would resume payment in the morning, and the line of watchers began to drift away. The last were still lingering about as Tim Harrigan came jauntily down the steps and hurried up the street with springy stride to bear joyful news to Nell. And as he strode along the street the smile that played about his lips gave place to a pucker, and he whistled—

It's a name that a shame never has been connected with,
Harrigan—that's me.

Squaring the Circle.

There is a record of an attempted quadrature in Egypt 500 years before the exodus of the Jews, and, if we are to take Hone as an authority, the problem was solved by Hippocrates, the geometrician of Chios, nearly 500 years B. C. By some it is claimed that the efforts of Hippocrates were in the direction of converting a circle into a crescent because he had found that the area of a figure produced by drawing two perpendicular radii is exactly equal to the triangle formed by the line of conjunction. This last is the famous theorem of the "lunes of Hippocrates." The "Papyrus Rhind," the oldest mathematical book in the world, written by one Ahmes about 2,000 B. C., gives a rule for "squaring the circle." The rule given requires that the diameter of a circle shall be shortened by one-ninth and the square erected upon this shortened line. The early Babylonians also worked at this old mathematical problem, as is attested by several references in the Talmud.

The Only One.

Henry VIII. of England, being at one time at variance with Francis I. of France, decided to send an ambassador and to charge him with a very fierce and menacing message to this prince. He chose for this office an English bishop in whom he had great confidence and whom he believed would be the most proper person to carry out his design. His prelate, being informed of the nature of his mission and fearing for his life should he treat with Francis in the haughty manner his master desired, represented to the king the danger to which he was exposing him and begged not to be sent on this mission.

"Oh, never fear," said Henry. "If the king of France should kill you, I will have the head of every Frenchman I find in my kingdom."

"I believe you, sire," replied the bishop, "but permit me to assure you that of all the heads you will cut off there is not one of them that will fit on my body as well as my own!"

Got Something For Nothing.

Mark Twain told how he got something for nothing one day in the early sixties when he needed the money. He walked into a hotel and was petting a strange dog. General Nelson A. Miles, who chanced to be present, offered him $10 for the canine.

"To be frank," said the humorist to General Miles, "I haven't really got any right to sell you this animal, but if you'll give me $3 you may take the pup away when I'm not looking, and I'll not tell who took it."

The bargain was closed, and General Miles took the dog to his room. A moment later the dog's owner inquired for his pet, and Mark Twain offered to find the animal for $3. The humorist then went to General Miles' room and explained all, had the dog returned to him, gave the army officer back his money and returned the canine to its original owner, thereby making $3.

How to Get Poor Quick.

Do not try to save your loose change. It is too small an amount to put in the savings bank. It would not amount to much anyway, and there is great comfort in spending it. Just wait until you get sufficient worth while before you deposit it.

Do not try to economize. It is an infernal nuisance to always try to save a few cents here and there. Besides, you will get the reputation of being mean and stingy. You want everybody to think you are generous.

Just look out for today. Have a good time as you go along. Just use your money yourself. Don't deprive yourself for the sake of laying up something for other people to fight over. Besides, you are sure of today. You might not be alive tomorrow.—Success Magazine.

Helping the Postoffice.

In a history of the great advance in postal methods accomplished by Sir Rowland Hill is given this anecdote: To the postoffice of at that time tiny Ambleside came one day a well to do man to buy a stamp to put on the letter he was about to post. "Is this new reform going to last?" he asked the postmaster. "Certainly," was the reply. "It is quite established." "Oh, well, then," said the man, resolved to give the thing generous support, "give me three stamps!"

His Bachelor's Degree.

"I'm so happy," said Mrs. Oldcastle. "My son is to get his bachelor's degree this year."

"Is he?" replied her hostess. "Well, I can't blame you for feelin' as you do about it. I never thought much of that snippy Wilson girl he's been goin' with. How did you get the match broke off?"—Chicago Record-Herald.

Seed Corn is Scarce.

According to men whose business it is to study crops, a corn famine is imminent during the coming season unless farmers exercise due precautions in the selection of seed corn. It is estimated that not more than twenty per cent of the seed corn harvested last fall will germinate this season. These estimates are made by Deputy Secretary of Agriculture Martin and Economic Zoologist Surface.

Seed corn is in poor condition over the entire country and Pennsylvania happens to be one of the poorest states in the union. The poor seed corn is attributed to the unseasonable weather last year. The corn did not have time to dry out and before it was throughly dry it froze and freezing kills the germinative quality. The one way to insure a good crop of corn is to test the germinative quality in each ear before planting any of the seed.

Concert for Hospital Benefit.

The Ladies Auxiliary to the Hospital board has arranged for a concert to be given in the court house on Wednesday, April 23, for the benefit of the Hospital fund. Miss Buchanan, of Philadelphia, who has sung in grand opera at the Academy of Music, will be heard in a programme of French, German and English songs, accompanied by Miss Rebecca Lyon, who will play several selections. All Bellefonte music lovers should be glad of this opportunity to hear some really good music and incidentally to help a good cause.

Tickets which will be sold for 50 cents on sale at Ceader's bakery.

Looks Like a New Route.

The railroad operations at Lock Haven have been a matter of much conjecture of late and developments are watched with interest. The latest report is that the Pennsylvania Railroad company is planning or negotiating for the purchase of a new road to be called the Pittsburg, Binghamton and Eastern raiload. The part of the line which the Pennsy desires to secure runs from Canton, Pa., to Binghamton, N. Y. It is said that this would give them a direct route from Pittsburg and Altoona by way of the Bald Eagle Valley railroad, recently acquired, to Lock Haven, thence to Canton and from Canton to Binghamton connecting with the main line of the D. & H. and running directly into Albany, N. Y.

—Among the coming nuptials are those of Mr. John Blanchard and Miss Adelaide Merriman and Mr. J. M. Curtin and Miss Adaline Harris. These weddings will take place in the Episcopal church on April twenty first but no invitations will be issued.

—The old reliable shoe firm of Yeager & Davis have mutually dissolved partnership, and the business will hereafter be conducted by H. C. Yeager. This firm has been doing business in Bellefonte for a number of years and they have always been thorough and up-to-date business men.

—Notwithstanding the business depression it is not at all likely that there will be any empty houses in Bellefonte this spring. This is a good sign that the town is prospering and that the people are not moving away. You will find this town just about as good in the long run as any you can go to.

—When the 9 15 passenger train pulled in at the station Thursday morning a drunken man climbed on to the engine and wanted to have things about his own way. He however ran against a snag for the conductor called a policeman who took the intoxicated man on his way with his dinner pail on his arm. A strange concidence was that the man was full and not the dinner pail.

—A caller at this office Thursday informed us that the American Lime and Stone company is about to resume. Indications have been pointing that way for the past few days as they have been engaging men to operate the quarries. This will be another help to the business situation in Bellefonte. —Secretary of Agriculture Wilson has begun a war on the storage egg man. He denies storage eggs the right to be called strictly fresh and says eggs should be labeled according to the date on which they were laid. If he wins in his contention that eggs which have been kept in cold storage are not fresh, the price of eggs will be materially lowered during the summer and during the winter they would be higher than ever.

—Samuel Meyers and Mrs. Calvin Horner who were arrested in Tyrone on Saturday and brought to Bellefonte are now languishing behind the bars at the county jail. They were to have a hearing Thursday, but we are informed that they would not appear. Mr. Horner, who was a caller at this office appears like a very gentlemanly person and is as pleasant a man as you would want to meet. The fact that his wife has deserted him and his children has caused him a great deal of anxiety, and there is some prospects of Mrs. Horner's declaration that "she would stick to Meyers if she had to go the penitentiary" being verified.

—Cellar pumps were in demand Thursday.

—Easter displays are appearing in the store windows.

—Osceola is mourning the death of one of her leading citizens, Hon. George M. Brisbin, which occurred at his home in that place Wednesday. Mr. Brisbin was born at Braddock's famous battle ground on June 29, 1826, and spent his early life in New Orleans. He came to Osceola about the close of the Civil war and has been identified with the building up of the town. He was prominent in the Odd Fellows and Masonic lodges. The funeral services were held Friday and interment made at Alexandria Saturday.

—John H. Miller, of Muncy, the man who found the body of Mrs. Swope in the river near that place, was called to Lock Haven to receive the reward offered by the Citizens' Reward Organization. The one hundred dollars was promptly paid to the finder by the treasurer of the organization, but when Mr. Swope, the husband came forward to pay the same amount, which was offered by the family, Mr. Miller refused to accept it, stating to the donor that the sad death of his wife had been the cause of too great sorrows for him to accept the reward.

—On April first Al Garman of Tyrone will take possession of the Garman house and will conduct this popular hotel in the usual up-to-date manner.

—The Renovo basket ball team had a pitiful story to relate to the Lock Haven papers. They did not succeed in injuring the Bellefonte players this time and getting the team so badly crippled as to take the game from them but had to take the defeat upon themselves It goes pretty tough to be worsted in a double effort.

—T. P. Cowdrick, the contractor, who came from Williamsport last fall and was soon afterward taken sick with typhoid fever, is again able to attend to business and informs us that prospects for the coming summer are unusually bright. He has secured a number of contracts in this and surrounding towns which will keep him busy during the season.

We know of no training that can replace the good gained at a good school of dancing and deportment. d-2-wk.

—Robbers broke into the hardware store of W. H. Miller Sunday night and got away with a few articles of value. Among the things stolen were three revolvers one of them a large army revolver and two smaller ones. The intruder also took about three dollars in change which he found in the till. Entrance was gained from the rear of the store. The revolvers had been placed on display in the window and must have appeared very attractive to the person who appropriated them under the cover of darkness.

—The price of granulated sugar took a sudden jump on Monday and is now quoted at seven cents per pound at all the stores. No reason can be assigned for the raise by the merchants other than the price was raised correspondingly on them. It is the general belief however that it is the work of the sugar trust. It is also claimed by some that the government is after the sugar refiners and that as soon as the present stock of sugar is run out they will not be permitted to manufacture the snowy white sugar as the process is not chemically pure in compliance with the pure food law in 1906. However, we hold to the belief that it is a speculative scheme.
